STANTON ON VACATION—Ben Stanton of the Phoenix Seed and Fertilizer Store has gone to Wheeling, West Virginia for a visit. Mrs. Stanton has been spending the summer in Wheeling and will return with Mr. Stanton.
They will also visit friends in Denver.

WHERRY TO LOCATE HERE—W.
J. Wherry, past grand master of the Pennsylvania Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows, who came to Phoenix a short time ago from Shamokin, Pa., has decided to locate here permanently. Just a few days ago he leased a residence with a one-acre tract at 1904 E. Washington St., where he is going into the poultry business on a large scale. He says this valley is an ideal place for chickens and turkeys.

LAWN CONTEST—Manager Mc-Nabb of the Arizona Seed Co., announces that many are already showing interest in the lawn contest, sixteen names having been entered in the past two days. For the benefit of those who let their lawns by contract he has secured the services of H. E. Butterfield, a practical landscape gardener, formerly of Kansas City and Little Rock.
Mr. Butterfield is not an amateur, but is a landscaper in every sense of the word and has spent 2 years here studying conditions before entering the field of his profession.

RECORD PACERS WILL APPEAR IN PHOENIX

Braden Direct, Which Set Track Record at Madison, Walter Cochato, Strathmore and Flower Direct

By FRANK CAVALLIER
MADISON, Wis., Sept. 6.—Four of the fast ones which made excitement in the free for all pace here today will be in Phoenix for state fair racing. They are Walter Cochato 2:02 1/4, Braden Direct 2:01 1/4, Knight of Strathmore, that set his mark at Phoenix last year at 2:03 1/4, and Flower Direct, now marked at 2:00 1/4. Braden Direct won the race in three heats, after taking third to Walter Cochato's win in the first heat.

In winning the last heat Braden stepped the mile 12:25, which is the track record—thus creating considerable excitement.
Great Western racing continues to be very popular, and draws big crowds everywhere. Today's crowd numbered all of 25,000 people.

STRENUOUS DAY FOR BRISBOIS

Chief of Police Falls into Abandoned Well and Gets Stuck With Automobile in Arizona Sand, All in One Day

Chief of Police George O. Brisbois had a strenuous day yesterday. Between falling to the bottom of an abandoned well and spending an hour hoisting himself out, and becoming stranded with an automobile in the deep sands in the vicinity of the city sewage disposal plant and forced to enlist the aid of a farmer and a team of horses to drag him out, he was again brought to a forcible realization that the chief's job is not all a bed of roses.

An investigation being conducted by the police department relative to some missing property, took the chief and Policeman Thurman down southwest of town. When they were well towards the dry river bottom, they encountered some genuine Arizona sand.
The more the wheels of the automobile turned the deeper the three were driven into the sand. The engine worked beautifully, but the machine refused to budge.

Finally the water in the radiator gave out and Thurman made a trip on foot of more than a mile to get more water. The chief of water he managed to secure had worn out its usefulness for drinking purposes but it sufficed to relieve the radiator trouble.
Then the chief and the policeman started again to get the machine back to civilization. At the end of two hours they were within three feet of the same spot where the trouble began. And then in the offing appeared a farmer driving a team hitched to a saw-grant wagon. It didn't take long to get the team into action just forward of the dash board of the city car and after a long pull and a hard one, the car began to roll under its own power.

That should have been enough for any peace officer for one day. But Brisbois was determined and he started out again, this time alone. He went down to where the sage brush and mesquite grow. He began to smell a close and candidly his car he proceeded on foot into the brush.
He hadn't gone more than ten feet before the earth fell away from under him and he began falling. He kept on falling for hours and hours. It seemed and when he landed it was in a shallow pool of muddy water. He looked up and saw only a small opening, possibly about the size of a dollar and a half. After a while he collected himself, struck a match and took a general survey. He was at the bottom of a hole, about five feet in circumference and twelve feet deep. He or high, as the case might be. To make a long story short, Brisbois managed after an hour's work, to clamber out of the depths. He would never have told it on himself, but he was forced to because of the mud on his clothes.

FRED SPAULDING HAS HAD ACTIVE CAREER

It is interesting to note something of the activities of George Fred Spaulding, who will lecture at the Phoenix high school next Monday evening. He graduated from the high school in 1908 after attending the institution for four years. During his attendance at school he was prominent in the school taking part not only in the sports but the other activities of the school. In addition to membership in the football and baseball teams he was prominent in the debating societies and won the state championship that year in the declamatory contest.

Following up his work in the local high school he began taking a prominent part in the activities of the University of Arizona when he attended that institution. He was a member of the championship football team of the year played on the baseball team and in the tennis tournament winning the championship of the state and holding it for two years. In addition to this he took interest in the track teams and continued to interest himself in the literary clubs of the Varsity.

In selecting the Rhodes scholars, under the rules laid down by the late Cecil Rhodes, the applicants for appointment are considered for their standing in school athletics as well as their academic standing. This then stood Spaulding in good stead when he went before the examiners. He won the appointment. He has been in Oxford University, as a resident of St.
John's College for two years and has made his mark continuing his interest in those college activities that made him notable while in school and college in Arizona.

Fellows meet this evening at 8 o'clock
